A MONUMENT DESIGN PRESENTATION

SERIES D1335-D1405

How do we communicate

the goodness of someone's life, the love she showed for her family, the sacrifice he made for his country, her faith in God, his strength, or the sorrow she felt at losing a husband or child?

There is a simple, beautiful language of symbols for commemorating these lives and experiences. This universal language is the outward, visible means of communicating and revealing the innermost and often hidden reality of who we are.

Generations have understood these symbols for which words are inadequate. These symbols can be used effectively to create truly meaningful memorials that convey messages of love, pride, and faith rather than simply placing a grave "marker." Families have their own tastes, their own colorful histories, their faiths and beliefs, their sacrifices, their children, and their own memories. Learning these details and applying symbols, shapes, lettering, and overall design to create a fitting memorial are tasks that involve a great deal of creativity and can be very fulfilling. While there are many symbols, some thousands of years old, the following is an introduction to the fundamental symbols used in memorial art.

Each season of life
should be cherished & remembered.

Memorials of enduring granite are symbolic of life,
family and faith.

They preserve our heritage
for future generations.

Thank you for taking time
to review this presentation.
Our counselors are prepared to help you create a personal and meaningful memorial tribute to the ones you love.

Seasons Cherished

How do we communicate the goodness of someone's life, the love she showed for her family, the sacrifice he made for his country, her faith in God, his strength, or the sorrow she felt at losing a husband or child?

There is a simple, beautiful language of symbols for commemorating these lives and experiences. This universal language is the outward, visible means of communicating and revealing the innermost and often hidden reality of who we are.

This carving directory is designed to assist you in selecting the ideal symbols for commemorating the life of your loved one. Each carving has an individual number for easy identification.

Monuments throughout this presentation also feature numbers. When customizing a monument, you may remove and add carvings according to their identification numbers.

Carvings shown are not to scale.

Generations have understood these symbols for which words are inadequate. These symbols can be used effectively to create truly meaningful memorials that convey messages of love, pride, and faith rather than simply placing a grave "marker."

Applying symbols, shapes, lettering, and overall design to create a fitting memorial are tasks that involve a great deal of creativity and can be very fulfilling. While there are many symbols, some thousands of years old, this directory represents some of the best known and widely used symbols in modern memorialization.
