

CHILD-REARING SKILLS

Child-Rearing Skills Inventory

Directions: Rate how often you use the following skills: rarely (0 points), sometimes (1 point), consistently (2 points). Check any skills that you would like to improve. Focus on one area at a time until you make progress.

Cooperation and Rules	Points
<input type="checkbox"/> 1. I use deadlines for starting tasks before valued activities that serve as incentives requiring cooperation.	1. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 2. I reinforce deadlines I set by withholding all privileges until the task is started and returning them as soon as the task is completed.	2. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 3. Once I decide on a consequence, I give only one warning before I act.	3. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 4. I think of a variety of actions to take when rules are broken, rather than always using the same consequence.	4. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 5. I use allowance, purchase points, ¹ praise, snacks, and verbal recognition to reinforce desirable behavior and reduce the need for corrective action.	5. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 6. I take action to correct my child rather than lecture, nag, plead, or yell.	6. <input type="checkbox"/>
Anger and Attitudes
<input type="checkbox"/> 7. When I correct my children, I remember to express confidence that they will eventually succeed and point out their past and current progress.	7. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 8. When my children are upset, I persistently feedback and reflect their feelings.	8. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 9. When feeding back my children's feelings does not calm them, I repeat my decision and table discussions until later.	9. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 10. When my children are upset with me, I make sure that they eventually express their feelings to me.	10. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 11. I avoid arguments by feeding back my children's viewpoint, rather than try to get mine across.	11. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 12. When I am too upset to understand my child, I suspend all discussion until I can listen.	12. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 13. Sometimes, after feeding back my children's feelings and understanding their point of view, I do not find it necessary to take corrective action.	13. <input type="checkbox"/>
Using Power Wisely
<input type="checkbox"/> 14. I stop myself from interfering or taking any action when my children's behavior is not dangerous and affects only themselves.	14. <input type="checkbox"/>
<input type="checkbox"/> 15. When I am uncomfortable with my partner's child-rearing approach, I listen to his or her reasoning and express my own until we reach an understanding.	15. <input type="checkbox"/>
